

Zoo Licensing Act 1981

(as amended by The Zoo Licensing Act 1981
(Amendment) (England and Wales) Regulations
2002) ("the 2002 Regulations")

Introduction

Regulations to amend the Zoo Licensing Act 1981 came into effect on 8 January 2003. They give statutory effect in England to those provisions of Council Directive 1999/22/EC not already implemented by the 1981 Act. For your convenience we have prepared a consolidated text of the Zoo Licensing Act as amended by the 2002 Regulations at Annex A, although, while we have made every effort to eliminate errors, this text should not be regarded as authoritative.

This Circular deals with the new measures that fall to the local authority in their role as the zoo licensing authority. It also incorporates and replaces the guidance contained in Department of the Environment (DOE) Circulars 5/84 and 11/88. This guidance should not be taken as an authoritative statement of the legal effect of the Act.

Brief summary of the Act

Section 1 deals with the scope of the Act and provides a definition for a zoo. Section 1A sets out the conservation measures zoos have to undertake. Sections 2 and 3 deal with zoo licence applications and their consideration. Section 4 provides for licences to be granted or refused. A licence can only be refused on grounds set out in this section. Section 5 covers the length of time a licence runs for and conditions attached to the licence. Section 6 is concerned with licence renewals. Section 7 provides for the transfer, transmission and surrender of licences. Section 8 requires the Secretary of State to compile a list of people with expertise in zoo matters. Section 9 enables the Secretary of State to specify standards of modern zoo practice. Section 9A sets out the procedures relating to inspections before a licence is to be issued or refused, renewed or significantly altered. Sections 10, 11, 11A and 12 provide for mandatory periodic inspections, discretionary special inspections, including where a zoo is closed, and informal inspections respectively. Section 13 makes special provision for local authority-owned zoos. Section 14 allows the Secretary of State to grant certain dispensations to small zoos or zoos where only a small number of different kinds of animals are kept. Section 15 allows local authorities to charge for licensing, inspections and other functions including those connected with the disposal of animals in the event of zoo closure. Section 16 allows for licences to be altered, including for conditions to be added to close permanently a section of a zoo. Section 16A provides the power to direct a zoo to comply with conditions on a licence, and includes the power of closing the zoo or part of the zoo temporarily to the public. Section 16B provides the power to close a zoo permanently. Section 16C provides for permanent closure of an unlicensed zoo operating illegally. Section 16D sets out the circumstances which result in the application of section 16E, which deals with the welfare of animals following the permanent closure of a zoo. Section 16F provides the local authority with the fall-back power to step in and deal with the disposal of animals when a zoo has closed permanently. Section 16G authorises the local authority to enter premises of a permanently closed zoo to deal with the disposal and care of animals. Section 17 has been repealed. Section 18 gives a right of appeal against certain decisions under the Act and section 19 relates to offences and penalties. Section 19A deals with the notification of directions. Section 20 made special transitory arrangement for those zoos that already existed in 1984 when the Zoo Licensing Act 1981 came into force. Section 21 is an interpretation provision. Section 22 makes minor consequential amendments to the Dangerous Wild Animals Act 1976. Section 23 provides for the short title, commencement and the extent of the Act. In addition regulation 27 of the 2002 Regulations requires that all existing licences be altered so as to include conditions to implement the conservation measures set out in section 1A. Regulation 28 provides transitory arrangements for those zoos operating legally without licences before the 2002 Regulations came into force that will need licences following the advent of the 2002 Regulations.

Introduction

Financial implications

Local authorities are reminded that section 15 of the Zoo Licensing Act 1981 (as amended) provides for all fees and costs reasonably incurred in administering the Act to be recovered from the zoo operator. All fees charged should reflect those costs reasonably incurred and may not be used as a punitive tool to dissuade zoos from opening. Section 16E provides a new power to ensure that, when a zoo closes permanently, animals are cared for or disposed of in a way that is not prejudicial to the protection of wild animals or the conservation of biodiversity. This would apply whether the closure was voluntary or forced. Any costs incurred may be recovered from the zoo licence holder as a civil debt.

Annex to Circular

Extent of the Act

1. Section 1 makes clear that all zoos that are open to the public, with or without charge on seven or more days in a twelve-month period need a licence from their local authority to operate. A zoo is defined as any establishment where animals of wild species are exhibited to the public. Circuses and pet shops are excluded from this definition (see paragraph 5 below). Local authorities in England are District, Unitary, Metropolitan, City of London and London Borough councils.
2. Section 1(2B) makes clear that this Act also applies to zoos which are not open on seven or more days in a twelve-month period, but have a licence in force, such as those that are temporarily closed while they comply with a direction issued under s16A of the Act. The Act also applies to zoos that have closed permanently while they make arrangements for the future care or disposal of their animals – see paragraph 109–117 below on section 16E.
3. An animal is defined as any multi-cellular organism that is not a plant or fungus. Animals of wild species are those not normally domesticated in Great Britain. A number of queries have been raised as to whether certain animals should be treated as wild for the purposes of this Act. The term is not further defined in the Act and the Secretary of State is not in a position to give an authoritative interpretation of the law, which is ultimately for the Courts. But to help in decision-making, the Department's informal view on the more common cases raised is set out at Annex E.
4. It should be noted that a collection consisting entirely of animals that are normally domesticated in Great Britain is not a zoo within the meaning of the Act. The attention of the local authority is also drawn to the following extract from a statement made by the Minister during the passage of the Zoo Licensing Bill through Parliament (House of Commons Standing Committee C Report, 13 May 1981 Col 95).

“It has been found impossible to arrive at a definition which is sufficiently embracing to cover all types of what common sense tells us are zoos, yet to exclude, for example, fish tanks in restaurants, parrots in pubs, or the pair of monkeys in the garden of a country café. Many of these... are so obviously not zoos that we do not want to bring about a situation in which we are inundated with requests for exemption requests. No officious local authority official would go round every dentist, building society manager or café proprietor and tell him that he is running a zoo. We must give some credit for the good sense of those who will be applying the Bill. In those few borderline cases where the verdict could go either way, there will have to be an individual decision based on the facts and circumstances of the case.”

5. A circus is defined as a place where animals are kept or introduced wholly or mainly for the purpose of performing tricks or manoeuvres at that place. Following the Court of Appeal judgment into the case of South Kesteven District Council v. Mackie & Others on 12 October 1999, circus winter quarters were held to be within the definition of a circus and therefore are not considered to be a zoo. A pet shop is defined as a premises holding a licence or requiring a licence under the Pet Animals Act 1951.

6. Section 14 allows exemptions from some or all of the provisions of the Act to be granted for small zoos on an individual basis. The criteria they would normally be expected to meet are listed at Annex D. These criteria are for guidance only and each case will be treated on its merits.

Conservation measures for zoos

7. Section 1A specifies the conservation measures that zoos are required to undertake. These are:
 - (i) research from which conservation benefits accrue to species of wild animals; and/or
 - (ii) training in relevant conservation skills; and/or
 - (iii) the exchange of information relating to the conservation of species of wild animals; and/or
 - (iv) where appropriate, breeding of wild animals in captivity; and/or
 - (v) where appropriate, the repopulation of an area with, or the reintroduction into the wild of, wild animals;
 - (vi) promoting public education and awareness in relation to the conservation of biodiversity, in particular by providing information about the species of wild animals kept in the zoo and their natural habitats;
 - (vii) accommodating their animals under conditions which aim to satisfy the biological and conservation requirements of the species to which they belong, including providing each animal with an environment well adapted to meet the physical, psychological and social needs of the species to which it belongs; and providing a high standard of animal husbandry with a developed programme of preventative and curative veterinary care and nutrition;
 - (viii) preventing the escape of animals and putting in place measures to be taken in the event of any escape or unauthorised release of animals;
 - (ix) preventing the intrusion of pests and vermin into the zoo premises; and
 - (x) keeping up-to-date records of the zoo's collection, including records of the numbers of different animals; acquisitions, births, deaths, disposals and escapes of animals; the causes of any such deaths; and of the health of the animals.
8. Local authorities should note that (i) to (v) are alternatives and zoos need to undertake at least one of these options, whereas (vi) onwards are mandatory. Local authorities must implement these requirements by attaching appropriate conditions in respect of each requirement to the licences of all zoos. Guidance for existing licences is set out in paragraphs 138 and 139 below.

9. The conditions must be appropriate to the size and nature of the zoos. For instance, there is no expectation that small zoos should undertake major conservation and educational projects. The extent of a zoo's conservation and educational activities should be proportionate to its size and the diversity of its collection. Further advice on this is provided in the Zoos Forum handbook, copies of which can be obtained from the Department's website at www.defra.gov.uk
10. Guidance on accommodation and general zoo practice is set out in the Secretary of State's Standards of Modern Zoo Practice. Examples of conservation measures in which zoos might participate are set out in the Zoos Forum Handbook. A copy of both documents are on the Defra website at www.defra.gov.uk
11. Measures must be taken with the aim of preventing the intrusion of pests and vermin, but it is recognised that not all zoos will be able to prevent all pest intrusions. Measures to prevent the intrusion of outside pests and vermin should be realistic and practical and reflect the nature and type of zoo.

How to obtain a licence for a new zoo

12. Before starting up a new zoo, the applicant must give the local authority at least two months' written notice (giving the particulars required by section 2(2) and 2(2A)) before applying to the authority for a licence. Section 2(2A) introduces a new requirement for applicants of a zoo licence to include in their notice to the local authority a statement of how they propose to implement the section 1A conservation measures at the zoo. The applicant must also publish notice of this intention and the particulars required by section 2(2) and 2(2A) in one local and one national newspaper, and display a copy of the published notice at the site of the proposed zoo. The published notice does not need to contain any of the information in section 2(2)(a)—(d) or 2(2A), although it must state where and when the notice to the local authority may be inspected.
13. Section 2(3) requires local authorities to make any notice of intention available for public inspection free of charge at reasonable hours, until the related application is processed. Local authorities are asked to co-operate with intending applicants in the provision of the information necessary to complete the notices of intention— particularly on matters covered by section 2(2)(c) and (d) and on where and when the notice to the local authority may be inspected.
14. Local authorities are required to take account of representations made in respect of any application by people and organisations set out in section 3 of the Act. There is no duty to consult these people or organisations, but a local authority must act reasonably, and what is reasonable may vary with the circumstances. An inspection of the zoo is also required before the licence can be granted or refused to establish whether or not licensing conditions can be met. Before that inspection, the local authority must consult the applicant about the proposed licence conditions.

15. Local authorities are advised to check with their planning department or any other sources that might be available to them for potential new zoos in their area and to liaise with the operator to ensure proper provision is being made for the animals and that the prospective new zoo is fully aware of what legislative requirements will apply.

Grant or refusal of a licence

16. Local authorities are required, in accordance with section 4 of the Act, to consider an inspector's report in reaching a decision on a new licence application. The report should contain information on the likelihood of the zoo's being able to comply with the proposed licence conditions (including those implementing the requirements in section 1A of the Act). A copy of the report should be sent to the applicant within one month of receipt for comment.
17. Section 4(2) requires local authorities to refuse to grant a licence if they are satisfied that the zoo, or its continuance, would injuriously affect the health or safety of persons living in the neighbourhood of the zoo, or seriously affect the preservation of law and order.
18. Section 4(2A) also requires local authorities to refuse to grant a licence for a zoo if, after inspecting the collection, they are not satisfied that it would be able to meet conditions to take forward conservation measures set out in section 1A of the Act.
19. Local authorities may refuse to grant a licence if they are not satisfied that the standards of accommodation, staffing or management are adequate for the proper care and well-being of the animals as a whole or for any of them, or otherwise for the proper conduct of the zoo. The Secretary of State would not normally expect a licence to be refused in a situation where adequate standards were not met but where there were reasonable prospects that improvements would take place. In practice this is a situation where the local authority will wish to consider imposing a condition or conditions (in accordance with the powers granted to them by section 5 of the Act). In exercising their discretion under section 4(3) of the Act the local authority should feel free to consult the Secretary of State for advice if they need it.
20. Local authorities may refuse a licence application if anyone associated with the zoo has, as stated in section 4(4) of the Act, a conviction under the Zoo Licensing Act 1981 (as amended) or any of the Acts mentioned in section 4(5). In exercising this discretion, local authorities will need to consider the seriousness of the offence committed.
21. If local authorities are not satisfied that planning permission has been granted for a zoo, the licence should be either refused or granted with its operation suspended until the local planning authority confirm that permission has been, or is deemed to be, granted.
22. A licence should be refused only for one of the reasons set out in section 4 of the Act. When a licence is refused, a written statement of the grounds of refusal must be issued to the applicant by post or delivered by hand. The local authority are expected to issue the grounds of refusal promptly to ensure that any unnecessary expense that might arise from undue delay is not incurred. The right of appeal against licence refusal is covered in paragraphs 129-133 below.

23. When a licence is granted, it must be sent to the applicant by post or delivered by hand. The licence and any conditions attached to it (or a copy) must be displayed at each public entrance to the zoo in a way that the public can see the licence and associated conditions.
24. Local authorities are not required to provide copies of zoo licences to interested parties, but they are free to do so if they wish. However, they are asked to send to the Department a copy of the licence, or any letter sent to the zoo upon renewal along with a copy of the inspector's report for information and record purposes. They are also asked to let the inspector have a copy of the licence.

Renewal of a licence

25. An application has to be made to the local authority at least six months before the expiry of the existing licence (unless special circumstances arise which, in the opinion of the authority are sufficient to allow applications later than this). The local authority, in accordance with section 6(4) of the Act, should, nine months or more before the licence expires, give the licence holder advance notice (preferably in writing), of the latest date on which he can make an application for renewal.
26. Before renewing the licence in accordance with section 6(1A), the local authority must make arrangements for an inspection to be carried out in accordance with section 9A of the Act. (see paragraphs 49–58 below for guidance on section 9A). Where an inspection is due under section 10 in the following 12 months, a section 10 inspection and a renewal inspection can be combined using the powers under section 9A(2). It should normally be possible, therefore, to combine the renewal inspection with the inspection required by section 10(3) not later than six months before the end of the final year of licence.
27. The local authority should send a copy of the inspector's report to the zoo operator within one month of receiving it. After considering the inspection report and any response from the operator, the local authority may renew the licence by extending the period of the licence by 6 years.
28. At this stage the authority could instead issue a notice directing the applicant under section 6(1)(b) to apply for a fresh licence. But by issuing the section 6(1)(b) notice without carrying out the renewal inspection, in some cases, it may be possible for the zoo to avoid two inspections in close proximity (see paragraphs 31 and 32 below).

Directing the applicant for a renewal of a zoo licence to apply for a fresh licence

29. The local authority should direct a zoo operator under section 6(1)(b) to apply for a fresh licence only where there is good and sufficient reason for doing so. For example, where there have been radical changes at the zoo's management structure or the animals held there since the previous licence was granted, particularly where the additional animals are considered hazardous. Appendix 12 of the Secretary of State's Standards of Modern Zoo Practice (see www.defra.gov.uk) provides a useful guide as to which animals are considered hazardous.

30. In deciding whether it is appropriate to require an application for a fresh licence, the local authority should be mindful that this could involve the applicant in extra expense and consider whether the need might be met in some other way—perhaps by altering the conditions of a licence under section 16 of the Act. But if the application is necessary, local authorities should ensure that applicants give at least two months' notice of their intention to make one in accordance with section 2 before it can be accepted.
31. Where the local authority issue a direction under section 6(1)(b) requiring the applicant to apply for a fresh licence after the renewal inspection required under section 6(1A) has been carried out, a further inspection will be required by section 4(1A) if a fresh licence application is made. Section 10(3) requires an inspection not later than six months before the end of the final year of licence. It may well be possible to combine the renewal inspection required by section 6(1A) with this section 10 inspection using the section 9A(2) power.
32. Where the local authority consider they have sufficiently compelling evidence to direct the zoo to apply for a fresh licence without the benefit of the renewal inspection report, they may do so. In such circumstances it may, where application for a fresh licence is made sufficiently early, be possible for the inspection required by section 10(3) (to be carried out not later than six months before the end of the final year of the licence) to be combined with the inspection required by section 4(1A) and an inspection was due under section 10, section 9A(2) allows the local authority to combine this section 10 inspection with the one required under section 4(1A), if the fresh licence application is made.
33. Local authorities are also reminded that they cannot direct the zoo (in accordance with section 6(1)(b) of the Act) to apply for a fresh licence until an application for renewal is made. It is therefore recommended that the local authority advise the zoo of their intentions in this respect when giving notice under section 6(4) of the Act. When the zoo makes an application for a fresh licence, a direction under section 6(1)(b) is not necessary.
34. Where the holder applies for a fresh licence, the existing licence continues in force until the application is processed or withdrawn. This is provided that the application is made before expiry of the existing licence or within six months after the issue of the local authority's direction to the zoo to apply for a fresh licence.

Duration of a licence

35. The original licence (ie the first licence granted to the zoo) shall run for four years. Any subsequent licence, whether a renewal licence or a fresh licence, as mentioned in sections 5(2) and 6(3) of the Act, shall run for six years. An original licence may be issued to run from a future date so the applicant can have the licence before the zoo is ready to commence, or recommence in the case of temporary closure.

Licence conditions

36. Section 5(2A) requires local authorities to ensure every licence always contains appropriate conditions to ensure the zoo gives effect to the requirements in section 1A of the Act. An example of such conditions is set out at Annex B. In addition to the requirement to attach licence conditions implementing the measures in section 1A, section 5 also gives the local authority discretion to attach any condition deemed necessary or desirable for the proper conduct of the zoo during the period of the licence.
37. In determining such conditions, the local authority are required to have regard to the Secretary of State's Standards of Modern Zoo Practice specified under section 9 of the Act. However, local authorities are reminded that conditions must not be inconsistent with any that the Secretary of State directs them to attach and that they must not attach conditions that relate only or primarily to the health, safety or welfare of zoo employees. An example of conditions that have routinely been attached to licences, insofar as they are applicable to the kinds of animals kept at the zoo is at Annex "C".
38. Once time-limited conditions dealing with issues not relating to the requirements of section 1A have been complied with, they should be removed from the licence upon renewal.

Enforcement of licence conditions

39. Where a local authority are not satisfied that a zoo licence holder has complied with a condition (or several conditions) attached to the licence, section 16A requires them, after giving the zoo licence holder the opportunity to be heard, to issue a direction requiring compliance with that condition. There is no need, however, for the authority to make a direction if they decide instead to close the zoo permanently in accordance with powers in subsection 16B(5).
40. Section 16A(2) specifies the contents of a direction. The direction must say what licence condition or conditions have not been complied with. For each condition it must say whether the condition has been breached at the whole zoo or whether only a section of the zoo (for example a department of the zoo or a particular part of the zoo's premises) breaches the condition. The direction must also stipulate the steps the licence holder must take to comply with the condition or conditions and the period for compliance, which must not exceed two years.
41. The direction can also require the zoo, or a part of it, to close to the public while the direction is in force, or for part of that period, if that is considered appropriate. A direction under section 16A cannot require a zoo or a section of a zoo to close permanently. Permanent closures may be required under section 16B or section 16(1A) and (1B) – see paragraphs 93-103 below.

42. Any decision to issue a direction under section 16A closing the zoo, or a section of it for a period of time, should not be taken lightly. Such a direction should be revoked once the zoo has complied with the condition or conditions. However, if the licence holder does not comply within the period specified in the direction (taking into account any extensions of time granted under section 16A(4)) and the condition not met relates to the requirements set out in section 1A of the Act, it will be necessary either to close down the zoo permanently under a direction issued under section 16B or permanently close the affected section of the zoo.
43. A direction issued under section 16A may be varied or revoked by a further direction of the local authority. Any decision to vary the direction by increasing the period of compliance must not extend the period beyond two years from the date when the direction was first issued. There is a right of appeal against these directions – see guidance in paragraphs 129-133 below. Directions requiring the temporary closure of the zoo or imposing requirements on the licence holder to carry out additional works at the zoo will not take effect until an appeal is decided (and is unsuccessful) or abandoned, or where the 28-day period for appeal expires and no appeal is made.

Transfer, transmission and surrender of a licence

44. A licence may be transferred to another person with the approval of the local authority. In exercising this power, the local authority will need to be satisfied that the transferee is suitable to hold the licence and is able to comply with the requirements in section 1A of the Act. As a transferred licence is not a fresh or renewed licence within the terms of the Act, the date of expiry should not be altered.
45. If the holder of the licence were to die, the personal representatives of the deceased are deemed to be the holders of the licence for a period of three months after the death, or longer if the local authority so approve. A longer period may be necessary as probate or letters of administration can take longer than three months to secure.
46. The licensee may surrender the licence at any time to the authority. The provisions of section 16E then apply (see paragraphs 109-117 below).

Inspections

47. There are four types of inspection: “licence”, “periodical”, “special”, and “informal”. Periodical inspections and certain licence inspections involve Secretary of State inspectors. Special, informal and certain licence inspections are conducted by people whom the local authority consider competent for the purpose of the inspection. Local authorities are reminded that they must consult the Secretary of State for the names of inspectors to carry out the periodical inspections and licence inspections before the grant or refusal or renewal of a licence. It should not be assumed that the Secretary of State nominees from the previous inspection remain the same for any subsequent inspection. Local authorities are further reminded that, except where a direction under section 14(1) of the Act has been issued, a mid-term periodical inspection must be arranged in the third year of the renewed or fresh licence.

48. Local authorities' attention is drawn to the provisions of the Health and Safety at Work etc. Act 1974 insofar as its provisions are relevant to zoos. It is hoped that, where practicable and desirable, it will prove possible to arrange an inspection covering both the 1974 and 1981 Acts at the same time. This will minimise inconvenience to the zoo operator and benefits will arise from the coming together of the respective inspectors.

Licence Inspection

49. Section 9A of the Act deals with inspections before the grant or refusal of a new licence, a renewal of a licence and before any significant alteration to a licence.
50. Section 9A(2) allows the local authority to use an inspection provided for under s10 (a periodical inspection) instead of s9A where the s10 inspection is due within 12 months of when arrangements for the s9A inspection would be made. Where local authorities exercise this discretion, whichever are applicable of the requirements in section 9A(10) to (13) must be dealt with under the s10 inspection. By making use of this power, the need for two inspections in close proximity, and associated costs, can be removed. Local authorities are encouraged to combine inspections in this way unless there are good reasons not to do so.
51. Section 9A(3) allows the local authority to combine inspections required prior to the renewal of a licence and a significant change to a licence. Likewise, where more than one inspection is required because significant changes to a licence have been identified, these too can be combined in accordance with s9A(4). Local authorities are again encouraged to combine these inspections unless there are good reasons not to do so.
52. Where an inspection under section 9A, 10 or 12 identifies a circumstance that is likely to lead to a significant change to the licence, a separate inspection relating to the significant change is not necessary. Instead section 9A(5) requires the inspector(s) to consult the licence holder about the alterations to the licence they consider would be needed, consider whether the new conditions they consider necessary will be met if the licence is altered, and cover this matter in the inspection report.
53. Where the inspection is prior to a new licence application or a renewal of a licence (even if the renewal is combined with an inspection for another purpose), section 9A(7) requires the inspector(s) to be nominated by the Secretary of State from his list of inspectors.
54. Where an inspection is to consider a significant change to a licence, section 9A(8) requires it to be conducted by inspectors considered competent by the authority and authorised by them. If the local authority cannot find suitably competent inspectors, they should approach the Secretary of State who should be able to suggest people.
55. Section 9A(9) requires that the zoo operator or licence applicant be given 28 days' notice of the inspection (after consultation with him). It is recommended, however, that at least six weeks be allowed for all parties to agree the inspection date. The local authority should also consult the new or existing zoo in advance of the inspection with conditions they propose to attach to the licence (where application is made for a new licence) or about the proposed alteration to the licence (significant alteration inspections). Following the inspection, the conditions should be finalised and it is recommended that the applicant be consulted, as appropriate, about changes to be made to these proposed conditions.

56. Where an inspection is carried out before the grant of a licence for a new zoo, section 9A(11) requires the inspector(s) to consider whether the conditions proposed by the authority are likely to be met if the licence is granted. Where an inspection is carried out before the grant of a new licence for an existing zoo, the inspector must consider whether existing licence conditions are met (section 9A(10)) as well as whether the proposed conditions for the new licence are likely to be met if it is granted. Where the inspection is carried out before a licence renewal, section 9A(10) requires the inspector(s) to be satisfied that existing conditions are met and sections 9A(12) requires him to be satisfied that they are likely to continue to be met if the licence is renewed. Where the inspection is carried out before a significant alteration of a licence, under section 9A(10) the inspector must consider if the existing licence conditions are met and under section 9A(13) he must consider if the proposed new or varied conditions are likely to be met and also if the conservation measures in section 1A would be implemented at the zoo if the proposed alterations were made.
57. Section 9A(14) requires the licence holder to supply any records requested by the inspector(s) in respect of conditions relating to the requirements of s1A(f) – see paragraph 7(x) above.
58. Section 9A(15) requires local authorities to send to a proposed or existing zoo a copy of an inspector(s)' report for comment within one month of receipt.

Periodical inspections

59. Section 10 deals with periodical inspection. In the case of an original (initial) licence, a periodical inspection shall take place during the first year and again not later than six months before the end of the fourth year of the period of that licence. For subsequent licences, periodical inspections are required during the third year and no later than six months before the end of the sixth year of the period of the licence.
60. Unless the zoo has received a dispensation under section 14 of the Act, the periodical inspections required under section 10(1) are to be carried out by a team of inspectors. This team shall comprise not more than three appointed by the local authority and two nominated by the Secretary of State after consultation with the local authority. The local authority appointees must appear to the authority to be competent for the purpose and at least one must be a veterinary surgeon or practitioner. Generally, only the one local authority appointee is needed, particularly where smaller zoos are involved. But if more than one is appointed, it is recommended that the additional members are from the Council's Environmental Health Department competent to consider general safety issues of concern to other inspectors.
61. If local authorities encounter difficulty appointing a suitable veterinary surgeon or practitioner, they are free to appoint a vet from the Secretary of State's list (as long as that person is not one of the Secretary of State's nominees). Indeed, if there are any doubts about the competence of the local vet to advise on the welfare of the zoo animals to be inspected, authorities are actively encouraged to contact the Secretary of State for details of a suitable inspector.

62. The two Secretary of State nominated inspectors will be from the Secretary of State's list of inspectors. One will be a competent veterinary surgeon or practitioner and the other competent to inspect animals and advise, amongst other things, on the management of zoos generally.
63. Prior to making any arrangements for the inspection with the zoo operator, the local authority must contact the Secretary of State for details of the nominated inspectors. These will be nominated in consultation with the local authority. The local authority will then appoint these inspectors and also up to three persons as mentioned above. It is recommended that at least six weeks are allowed for all parties to agree the inspection date. The local authority must ensure that notice of intention to inspect is given to the operator at least 28 days prior to the proposed inspection date (section 10(2) refers). The operator must also be given the names of the inspecting team (section 10(4)(a) refers).
64. Section 10(4)(b) provides that the zoo operator may object (by notice to the local authority) to any one or more of the inspectors, although it is for the local authority or the Secretary of State, as appropriate, to decide whether the inspecting team should be changed. Section 10(4)(c) allows the operator to choose up to three representatives to accompany the inspecting team. The operator or a deputy are asked to be available to meet inspectors to answer any queries they may have; and to direct them to exhibits and areas of the zoos they may wish to visit, including those where any records of the animals are kept in the zoo. The inspecting team may require the attendance of the zoo's veterinary surgeon or practitioner during the inspection (section 10(4)(c) refers).
65. The inspection will cover all features of the zoo which are directly or indirectly relevant to the health, welfare and safety of the public and animals. Also, if the inspection is to be used instead of one needed under section 9A, it will extend to the zoo's compliance with existing licence conditions and/or the likelihood of complying with proposed new or varied conditions including those implementing the requirements set out in section 1A of the Act, see section 9A(2) and (10) – (13) – see paragraph 56 above.
66. The inspection will address the zoo's staff involvement in matters, such as they relate to the above-mentioned features. The inspectors will require to see any records which the operator is required to keep as a condition of the licence relating to conservation measures (section 10(4)(e)). The inspectors' report may include advice and/or recommendations for any improvements designed to ensure the zoo carries out its conservation, public safety and animal welfare activities. For this purpose the inspectors are required to have regard to the Secretary of State's standards drawn up under section 9, and are recommended to have regard to any other associated advice.
67. Section 10(6) of the Act provides a procedure for dealing with any disagreement between inspectors over recommendations in their report relating to animal welfare, conservation and other activities of the zoo. In such a case the disagreement may be referred to the Secretary of State who may, after consultation with such persons on his list as he thinks fit, give guidance in regard to the recommendations to be made about animal welfare. It is hoped, however, that the inspectors will first try to resolve any disagreement between themselves. The local authority are required to send a copy of the inspectors' report to the operator of the zoo, within one month of receiving it, and to give him the opportunity to make representations or comment on it (section 10(7)).

Special Inspections

68. The third type of inspection provided for in the Act is the special inspection of a licensed zoo (see section 11). This is at the discretion of the local authority if they consider it to be appropriate having regard to:
- (a) any periodical report on the zoo made to them pursuant to section 10; or
 - (b) any representations made to them on behalf of a properly constituted body concerned with any aspect of the management of zoos or the welfare of animals; or
 - (c) any report on the zoo made to them pursuant to an inspection under the provisions of sections 9A (licence inspections) or 12 (informal inspections); or
 - (d) any other circumstances which in their opinion call for investigation.
69. An inspection under (d) might be necessary to check compliance with licence conditions that require improvements to be made within a specified period of time – particularly if the period expires in the same year as the inspection that led to the condition being added. However, it is hoped that where the specified period expires in a year where the local authority carry out an informal inspection, the timing of such an inspection could be arranged to allow the compliance check(s) to be made. This would remove the need for more than one inspection in the same year.
70. A special inspection can be carried out at any time. The local authority are required to communicate to the zoo operator the purpose and scope of the inspection (section 11(4)). In case the operator wishes to have any representatives present (up to three) the local authority also has to notify the zoo of the date and time so arrangements can be made. The local authority may appoint whomever they consider competent for the purpose of the inspection. However, where the purpose of the inspection relates to the health of animals, a veterinary surgeon or practitioner with experience of the animal kinds kept in the zoo must be appointed (section 11(3)). (Unlike the case of a periodical inspection the zoo operator does not have to be told who the inspector or inspectors are).
71. Where the local authority receive representations or complaints about a zoo (otherwise than in an inspectors' report), they will wish to make preliminary inquiries before deciding to undertake a special inspection, so as to ensure that the circumstances appear to warrant one. It is considered that any such inspection should be carried out by the minimum number of inspectors for the purpose – normally only one. The inspection and report should cover only those matters which are relevant to the reasons for arranging it, and this fact must be communicated to the inspectors beforehand (section 11(4)). The local authority are required to send a copy of the report to the operator for his comment (section 11(5)).

72. Section 11A permits a local authority to carry out a special inspection at a zoo which has closed permanently (and to which section 16E applies – see paragraphs 109-117 below):
- (a) to supervise implementation of a plan prepared under s16E(2); and/or
 - (b) to help to decide whether a direction is necessary under s16E(6) or to ensure that a such a direction is being complied with; and/or
 - (c) to help to decide whether the authority need to make their own arrangements for the care and disposal of animals at a closed zoo under s16E(7) or (8).
73. Section 10(4)(c) and sections 11(2), (3), and (4) apply to an inspection under s11A. As such, the operator may have up to three representatives at the inspection, and the inspector(s) may require the presence of the zoo's vet. The local authority must authorise inspector(s) whom they consider competent to carry out the inspection. If the inspection relates to the health of the animals, the inspector(s) must include a suitably competent vet or veterinary practitioner, and if there is only one, he must have this veterinary competence. The local authority must communicate to the inspector(s) and the zoo operator the purpose and scope of the inspection.
74. Section 11A(3) provides for the zoo to supply all records of the collection kept by the zoo, should the inspector(s) need to see them. Unless the operator of the zoo cannot be found, the local authority must promptly send a copy of the inspectors' report to him and give him the chance to comment on it.

Informal inspections

75. Section 12 requires the local authority to carry out an informal inspection in any calendar year in which there is neither a periodical nor a special inspection. This has to be carried out by a single inspector whom the local authority consider to be competent for the purpose. To reduce the likelihood of having both an informal and a special inspection in the same year, and thereby minimise the costs to the zoo operator, it is suggested that the informal inspection is held towards the end of the year. At this stage, it should be less likely that a special inspection is necessary.
76. The arrangements for, and conduct of, an informal inspection are for the local authority to decide, but it is recommended that a written report is made, as the local authority may need to arrange a special inspection as a result of the inspector's observations. The local authority may, if it is felt appropriate, carry out the inspection without notice – perhaps even by paying at the gate as though the inspector were just another member of the public. The drawback of this may be that zoo employees are not on hand to assist. However, where the zoo has been granted a dispensation under section 14(1)(b) of the Act (see paragraph 84 below), it is advised that the local authority make prior arrangements, as the inspector will need to be satisfied about the proper conduct of the zoo taking account of the Secretary of State's Standards of Modern Zoo Practice.

77. Whether or not prior arrangements are made for the inspection, it is suggested that, amongst other things, the inspector looks to see:
- (a) whether there are any obvious ways in which the zoo is not being managed satisfactorily, including those matters covered in paragraph 7 above;
 - (b) whether the conditions of the licence are being broken;
 - (c) what progress there has been in carrying out the recommendations in the reports of previous inspections;
 - (d) whether there have been any new exhibits, improvements or other changes since the previous inspection; and
 - (e) that any time limited conditions have been complied with in the time specified.

Local Authority Zoos

78. Section 13 deals with the situation where the local authority are the owner of a zoo. It is recommended that the local authority nominate an officer to be responsible for the zoo. Section 13 applies the Act to authority-owned zoos subject to various additions and modifications. The local authority are required to send to the Secretary of State a copy of the licence, or notification in writing of any extension to it. They must also send her a copy of any inspectors' report, along with any comments they may have on it. The object of this latter requirement is to enable the Secretary of State to direct the inclusion of conditions in a licence (section 5(5)).
79. Section 13(4) and 13(5) gives the Secretary of State (not the authority) the functions of issuing directions permanently closing a zoo under s16B, or a section of a zoo under s16(1A) and (1B), or enforcing licence conditions under s16A. Section 13(6) makes simplified provision for the closure of unlicensed zoos owned by local authorities and operated unlawfully (in place of section 16C). Section 13(8) deals with the future care or disposal of animals at local authority-owned zoos that close permanently (and replaces section 16E for these zoos). The local authority are required to make arrangements for the future care of the animals, or their disposal and care until disposed of. There is a right of appeal against a direction issued under section 13(8) – see paragraphs 129-133 below. The local authority are also required to supply any information on the care or disposal of the animals to the Secretary of State, as requested and the Secretary of State may give the local authority directions about the care or disposal of animals at permanently closed zoos. Section 13(9) to 13(11) provides the Secretary of State with the option of requiring a local authority-owned zoo to be inspected.

Dispensation for particular zoos

80. Section 14 provides the Secretary of State with powers to relax the requirements of the Act for a small zoo or for a zoo exhibiting only a small number of different kinds of animals. Each case will be treated on its individual merits.

81. Under section 14(1)(a), the Secretary of State may issue a direction to the effect that the Act shall not apply to a particular zoo. She will take account of the health, safety or welfare of the animals and visitors to the zoo, even if it is small or has only a few different species in reaching a decision. She must also be satisfied that the direction does not detrimentally impact on the protection of wild fauna or the conservation of biodiversity. She will also want to be satisfied that the animals are not of a hazardous nature. Hazardous animals are generally considered to be those listed in category 1 and/or 2 of Appendix 12 to the Secretary of State's Standards of Modern Zoo Practice.
82. It is for the local authority to seek the 14(1)(a) direction, which should be supported by a letter from a veterinary surgeon or practitioner (not used by the zoo in question) confirming that the collection appears to be run properly and the animals properly cared for.
83. If a 14(1)(a) direction is issued the local authority will have no powers under the Act to inspect the zoo. However, in practice, the local authority may find that they are able to keep a check on it by means of inspections carried out under other legislation, such as the Health and Safety at Work Act 1974. Local authorities are advised to review the exempt status from time to time. If the nature of the zoo changes dramatically through expansion or the acquisition of hazardous species, the local authority are advised to notify the Secretary of State with any information they have which might suggest the direction is no longer appropriate. The Secretary of State has the power, after consulting the local authority and operator, under section 14(3) of the Act to revoke any such direction, thereby requiring the zoo operator to obtain a zoo licence or face prosecution if the zoo continues to operate without one.
84. Under Section 14(1)(b), the Secretary of State may issue a direction to the effect that either a periodical or special inspection or both (but not an informal or licence inspection) shall not be required. As with a 14(1)(a) direction, the Secretary of State will take account of the health, safety or welfare of the animals and visitors to the zoo. Consideration will also be given to the conservation status of the animals as well as how hazardous they are. Again, it is for the local authority to seek this direction.
85. Under section 14(2), the Secretary of State may direct that the periodical inspection is to be carried out only by the inspector or inspectors appointed by her. It is for the zoo operator to seek this direction, but the Secretary of State must seek the views of the local authority.
86. In reaching a decision on any request for a direction under section 14, the Secretary of State will consult such persons on the list referred to in section 8 of the Act as she sees fit. Account will also be taken of the guidance at Annex D, although it should be noted that each case is treated on its individual merits. Any direction made under section 14 of the Act may be varied or revoked by the Secretary of State on having consulted the local authority and such persons on the list as she thinks fit, and only where she is satisfied that doing so is not prejudicial to the protection of wild animals and the conservation of biodiversity. The Secretary of State will notify the local authority and the zoo operator in writing of any direction made or of any revocation or variation to such a direction.

Fees and other charges

87. Section 15 deals with the financial aspects of the licensing and inspection system, issuing directions and disposing of animals. Local authorities have the power to charge such reasonable fees as they may determine in respect of applications for the grant, renewal, or transfer of licences and subsequent action. Local authorities may also charge for reasonable expenses incurred by them in respect of inspections. This charge includes both the costs incurred by the local authority in appointing their own inspectors under sections 9A, 10(4)(a)(i), 11 and 12, and the costs incurred in meeting the cost of services and expenses of those inspectors appointed by the Secretary of State. The local authority may, if so requested by the zoo operator, accept payments by instalments (section 15(3) refers).
88. Local authorities are also entitled to recover such costs as are reasonably incurred in issuing directions under the Act and exercising their duties for treating and disposing of animals in accordance with section 16E of the Act. Where the zoo operator does not pay these costs, the local authority should seek to recover them as a civil debt. Where the local authority have generated revenue from the sale of animals that exceeds the charges they are entitled to make for winding up the zoo, this "profit" must be returned to the zoo operator in accordance with section 16F(5). But proceeds of sale of animals belonging to persons other than the zoo operator must be returned to the owner under section 16F(7) although the authority is entitled to deduct their costs of caring for the animals and of selling them.
89. Under section 15(5) the local authority are required to ensure that the amount of all fees and other sums charged in a particular year is sufficient to cover the reasonable expenditure incurred by the authority in that year by virtue of the Act. Local authorities are asked to make every endeavour to ensure that charges are kept to a minimum in meeting this obligation and are also reminded that it is not within their powers to levy fees and charges which exceed the costs incurred in administering their duties under the Act. In the case of inspectors, local authorities are advised to negotiate rates for fees not exceeding those payable to persons on the Secretary of State's list.

Power to alter licences

90. Section 16 provides the local authority with the power to alter licences. This can be done by varying, cancelling, attaching new conditions or by a combination of these methods if in their opinion it is necessary or desirable to do so for ensuring the proper conduct of the zoo during the period of the licence. Before exercising this power the local authority are required to give the licence holder an opportunity to make representations. Any altered licence shall, in accordance with section 16(4A), include conditions to ensure compliance with section 1A of the Act.
91. Also, before a significant amendment is made to a licence, section 16(2A) and (2B) requires the authority to consult the licence holder about the proposed change, arrange an inspection under section 9A (unless section 9A(5)(c) applies), and consider the inspection report. Where the proposed change stems from a direction from the Secretary of State, the local authority should, in accordance with section 16(3A), send a copy of the inspection report to the Secretary of State.

92. It will be for the local authority to decide what justifies a significant change to the licence, but it might be the introduction of a significantly different animal type into the collection, such as reptiles and/or mammals into a bird park, or the introduction of hazardous or conservation sensitive animals, although this will always be a matter of fact and degree.
93. Section 16(1A) requires a local authority to close permanently a section of a zoo where they have made a section 16A(2) direction about the breach of a particular licence condition, the period specified in the direction has expired and a section of the zoo remains in breach of that licence condition. To determine which section of the zoo must be closed the following rules apply:

where the section 16A(2) direction specified that the whole zoo was in breach of a licence condition, and only a section of the zoo remains in breach of the condition at the end of the period mentioned in the direction, that section must be closed where the section 16A(2) direction specified that a section of the zoo was in breach of the licence condition, and the same section remains in breach of the condition at the end of the period mentioned in the direction, that section must be closed

where the section 16A(2) direction specified that a section of the zoo was in breach of a licence condition, and a smaller part of that section remains in breach of the condition at the end of the period mentioned in the direction, that smaller part of the section must be closed

Section 16(1B) requires the local authority to effect this permanent closure by altering the licence by attaching appropriate conditions to it.

94. Where the section 16A(2) direction specified that a section of the zoo was in breach of a licence condition, and at the end of the period mentioned in the direction that section was no longer in breach but another section was now in breach of the licence condition, there is no requirement to close any section of the zoo. Instead the authority should take enforcement action for the new breach.
95. Section 1(2C)(a) identifies a section of a zoo as a particular part of the zoo, such as a building or enclosure or area; animals of a particular description, for example tigers or parrots; or animals of a particular description that are kept in a particular part of the zoo. This might cover, for example, the parrots in one enclosure, but not the parrots in another enclosure.
96. Section 18(1) provides a right of appeal to a magistrates' court against a condition(s) being attached to a licence to effect permanent closure – see paragraphs 129-133 below. Section 18(7A) also makes clear that an alteration to a licence made under section 16(1B) shall not have effect until after the appeal period has expired, or if an appeal has been lodged, that it has been decided or abandoned – see paragraph 131. Where a section of the zoo is permanently closed the requirements of section 16E apply (or section 13(8) if the zoo is owned by the local authority) – see paragraphs 109-117 and 79 respectively.

97. The Secretary of State may also direct the local authority to alter the licence. Any condition proposed by the local authority must not be inconsistent with any one attached or varied in pursuance of a direction of the Secretary of State. An alteration to a licence shall not take effect until written notification of it has been received by the licence holder.

Closure of a licensed zoo

98. Section 16B provides the local authority with the power to close permanently a zoo by giving a zoo closure direction. This is different from the temporary closure to the public direction catered for in section 16A (licence conditions) – see paragraphs 39 to 43 above. Permanent closure of a section of the zoo is provided for by section 16(1A) and (1B).
99. The local authority must permanently close the zoo where:
- a) the local authority are satisfied that a licence condition giving effect to any conservation measure in section 1A of the Act referred to in a direction they have given under section 16A(1) has not been met in respect of the whole zoo within the period specified in that direction – section 16B(1) refers. Before issuing this direction, the local authority must give the licence holder the opportunity to be heard;
 - b) the zoo licence holder cannot be found after reasonable enquiries have been made – section 16B(2) refers;
 - c) the authority are satisfied, after giving the licence holder an opportunity to be heard, that the zoo no longer opens on seven or more days in a twelve-month period and it will not be opening on seven or more days in any future twelve-month period – section 16B(3) refers.
100. The local authority has a discretionary power to close a zoo where:
- a) the local authority are satisfied that a licence condition other than one giving effect to any conservation measure in section 1A of the Act referred to in a direction they have given under section 16A(1) has not been met within the period specified in that direction – section 16B(4) refers. The detailed requirements of section 16B(4)(b) must also be met. Before issuing a direction under section 16B(4), the local authority must give the licence holder the opportunity to be heard;
 - b) the local authority are satisfied that any reasonable requirements relating to the premises or conduct of the zoo as notified to the licence holder in consequence of the report of any inspection under this Act are not complied with in a reasonable period of time – section 16B(5)(a) refers;
 - c) the local authority is satisfied that the zoo has been conducted in a disorderly manner or that a nuisance has been caused, or there has been a breach of any condition of the licence – section 16B(5)(b) refers;

- d) the licence holder has been convicted of an offence mentioned in section 4(4) – section 16B(5)(c) refers, or a keeper at the zoo, in the knowledge of the licence holder, has been so convicted – section 16B(5)(d) refers;
101. Section 16B(6) prevents the local authority issuing a zoo closure direction under section 16B(5) while a direction under section 16A(2) (enforcement of licence conditions) is in force and there has been no material change in circumstances since the section 16A(2) direction was issued. Section 16B(7) adds that for cases involving the care and treatment of animals, local authorities must consult with such persons as the Secretary of State nominates before going ahead with the zoo closure under section 16B(5)(a) or (b).
102. There is a right of appeal against a zoo closure direction under section 18(1)(f) – see paragraphs 129-133 below. Such a direction only takes effect after an appeal is decided (if unsuccessful) or abandoned or where the 28-day period of appeal expires and no appeal is made (section 18(10) – see paragraph 133 below).
103. Where a zoo is closed down under a zoo closure direction, the licence is automatically revoked from the date the zoo closure direction takes effect. A zoo licence holder who does not have a reasonable excuse will be guilty of an offence if the zoo continues to operate once the zoo closure direction takes effect.

Closure of an unlicensed zoo

104. Section 16C applies to unlicensed zoos that have no direction issued under section 14(1)(a) of the Act (zoos to which the Act does not apply) and have been open for more than seven days in the last twelve months in contravention of the Act.
105. Section 16C(2) requires the local authority to issue a zoo closure direction to close any unlicensed zoo that should be licensed when the operator cannot be found after reasonable enquiries have been made.
106. Unless the local authority are minded to make an application to the Secretary of State on behalf of the zoo for a direction under section 14(1)(a), they shall notify the operator, in accordance with section 16C(3), of their intention to close the zoo in at least 35 days time and of the operator's opportunity to be heard under subsection (4)(a).
107. Section 16C(4) requires the local authority to issue a zoo closure direction if they are satisfied after at least 35 days have passed and the operator has had an opportunity to be heard that the establishment is an unlicensed zoo operating unlawfully and the operator has not issued a notice of intention to apply for a zoo licence under section 2 of the Act.
108. Section 16C(5) requires the local authority to issue a zoo closure direction if no licence application is made within three months of the date of the notice of intention to apply; or the application is refused and there is no appeal or the appeal is unsuccessful or abandoned.

Welfare of Animals following permanent closure of a zoo

109. Zoo operators must make arrangements for the future care or disposal of their animals in accordance with section 16E when:
- a zoo closure direction has been made in respect of the zoo and has taken effect (paragraph 102 explains when a zoo closure direction takes effect);
 - the zoo's licence has expired;
 - the zoo's licence has been surrendered.
110. Zoos will also be required to make arrangements for the future care or disposal of part of their collection in accordance with section 16E. Such a requirement arises where a section of the zoo has been closed permanently to the public under section 16(1A) and (1B) (see section 16D(3)). The requirement may, however, be terminated by further alterations to the zoo's licence (see section 16D(4)). For example, where the animals in the permanently closed section of the zoo have been disposed of, and the authority subsequently alter the zoo licence to permit their former accommodation to be converted for a different use.
111. Section 16E(2) requires the zoo operator, as soon as reasonably practicable, to submit to the local authority a plan setting out the proposed arrangements for the welfare of the animals in the zoo he plans to keep and for the disposal of animals he plans to dispose of and their care until that disposal takes place. The local authority should note that it is acceptable for the plan to show that some or all of the animals will be retained in a private collection. Where that is the case, the authority needs to be satisfied that they can be properly looked after.
112. The local authority should note that in accordance with section 16(10), the arrangements for the care or disposal of the animals must not be prejudicial to the protection of wild animals or the conservation of biodiversity.
113. Section 16E(3) requires the zoo to supply to the authority any information requested about the care or disposal of the animals kept there.
114. The local authority must consider the plan and decide whether to approve it or whether improvements are needed before they approve it. The zoo operator is not permitted to implement the plan until the local authority have approved it in accordance with section 16E(4). The local authority must supervise the implementation of the plan once it has been approved.
115. In some cases zoo operators may need to dispose of animals before the plan has been approved. Section 16E(5) allows them to do this if they obtain the approval of the local authority. Section 16E(5) also allows operators to dispose of animals other than in accordance with an approved plan if the authority agrees. For example, the animal was to be moved to a specified new home but before that happened the intended recipient decided it no longer wanted, or could take, the animal.

116. Where the local authority do not approve the plan in the form submitted and are unable to agree changes with the zoo operator, they can make use of their power under section 16E(6) to issue a direction to the zoo operator about the treatment or disposal of animals in the zoo. The local authority can also use the section 16E(6) power to issue a direction to the zoo operator about the future care of the zoo animals or about their disposal and care until they are disposed where they are not satisfied with the way an approved plan is being implemented, or where the zoo operator is taking an unreasonably long time to prepare a plan, or where they consider urgent steps need to be taken by the zoo to safeguard the welfare of the zoo animals. Before issuing this sort of direction, the authority must give the zoo operator the opportunity to be heard. The local authority may vary a section 16E(6) direction under – section 16E(11), but, unless the zoo operator has disappeared, they shall not do so unless the operator is given the opportunity to be heard.
117. There is a right of appeal against a local authority's decision not to approve a plan prepared under section 16E(2); a direction issued under section 16E(6) or any variation of such a direction; and arrangements made by the local authority under section 16E(7) or (8) – see paragraph 129 below. Some directions under section 16E(6) will not take effect immediately they are made – see paragraph 132 below.

Powers of the local authority to make their own arrangements for the welfare of animals at a permanently closed zoo

118. The Act contains a reserve power for local authorities to make their own arrangements for the welfare or disposal of animals at a closed zoo. A local authority would only need to take such steps when a zoo's operator goes missing (section 16E(8)) or there are severe problems with the zoo operator's arrangements (section 16E(7)). It is expected that these circumstances will seldom arise. Where they intend to use this reserve power and the operator has not gone missing, the local authority must give him the opportunity to be heard before they use it.
119. Section 16E(9) makes clear that where the local authority have to make arrangements for the zoo animals in accordance with section 16E(7) or (8), they can care for the animals at the zoo or remove them and retain them in the authority's possession or dispose of them (for more about disposals see paragraphs 120-127 below). Annex F also provides guidance on disposal of animals.

Power of authority to dispose of animals

120. Section 16F (power of authority to dispose of animals) only applies where the local authority are themselves making the arrangements for the care or disposal of the animals in a permanently closed zoo. This section applies in no other circumstances.
121. Section 16F(2) makes clear that the authority may sell, or dispose of the zoo animals by other means (such as loaning them to another zoo, giving them to another zoo or having them put down) where they are satisfied that:

- (a) the animal is owned by the zoo operator, or, if not owned by the zoo operator,
 - (b) they cannot trace the true owner, or
 - (c) they have the consent of the owner, or
 - (d) the owner has failed to respond to a request for permission to dispose of it and hasn't taken responsibility for it, or
 - (e) the owner has arranged to take possession of it, but has failed to do so by the set date.
122. Where the authority are advised by a veterinary surgeon that an animal needs to be put down in the interests of its welfare, nothing in section 16F shall prevent that action.
123. Local authorities are advised to consult the Zoos Federation, the British Association of Leisure Parks, Piers and Attractions and/or the RSPCA for advice on finding possible new homes for animals (contact details at Annex H). It should be noted that where the animal is conservation sensitive, taxon advisory groups should be approached in the first place, via the Zoos Federation, as they should be able to find homes for such animals. More advice on animal disposal can be found in Annex F.
124. Where the local authority are able to sell some or all of the zoo animals, they must pay the zoo operator the balance (if any) of the total proceeds generated by the sale of animals belonging to the operator. The authority is entitled first to deduct the charges they are entitled to make in connection with arranging for the welfare or disposal of animals at the closed zoo. Where the local authority sell animals belonging to a person other than the zoo operator, they must pay to the owner of the animals the total proceeds generated by the sales of any animals disposed of in that manner less their costs of caring for and disposing of the animals. The authority must make these payments within four months of the date of the sale of the last animal to be sold. Such payments shall not be made, however, until one month after the date of the last animal is sold. Where the authority cannot within the four-month period find the operator or other person to whom they are required to make payments in respect of the sale of animals, the proceeds may be retained by the authority.
125. The powers of disposal only apply to animals kept in the zoo which are subject to arrangements under section 16E. The local authority must not sell any pet animals belonging to the zoo operator or the zoo's employees that might be found within the grounds of the zoo.

Powers of Entry

126. Section 16G (powers of entry) only applies where the local authority have to enter the zoo to allow them to undertake their responsibilities for caring for or disposing of the animals in accordance with – section 16E(7) or (8). In no other circumstances does the Act give local authorities such powers. The power of entry can be exercised only for inspecting any animal to which the arrangements relate, or their accommodation, or caring for or removing the animal(s). Section 16G(1) requires the local authority authorised person to be able to show authority before entering the zoo.

127. Where access to the zoo grounds has been denied or the local authority need to enter a private dwelling within the zoo grounds to exercise their functions under section 16E(7) or (8), section 16G(3) provides for the authority to obtain a warrant from a justice of the peace. A warrant may authorise admission by constables and such other persons as are deemed necessary to accompany the authorised person and it may authorise the use of reasonable force to gain entry if necessary. A warrant should state the period for which it is valid and the times at which entry may be gained and could also contain other restrictions on its use.

Date from which the Zoo Licensing Act ceases to apply to a closed zoo

128. The local authority must notify the operator of a closed zoo when they determine that the Zoo Licensing Act need no longer apply. Under section 16D(2) the authority must first be satisfied that all disposals of animals have been completed and satisfactory arrangements for the future care of the animals retained by the operator are in place and will continue to be maintained.

Appeals

129. Section 18 sets out the rights of appeal and the procedure to be followed when an appeal is lodged. There is a right of appeal against:

- (a) the refusal to grant a licence;
- (b) any condition attached to a licence;
- (c) any variation or cancellation of a condition;
- (d) the refusal to approve the transfer of a licence;

Any such appeals must be made within 28 days of receipt of written notification of the decision of the local authority. Appeals must be made to a magistrates' court acting for the petty sessions area in which the zoo is (or is proposed to be) situated.

130. Section 18(7) deals with appeals against a condition or variation of a condition that requires the licence holder to carry out works which would not otherwise be required to be carried out. In these circumstances, the condition or variation shall not be effective during the period in which an appeal can be lodged (ie 28 days) or (where an appeal is duly brought) during the period of any appeal.
131. Section 18(7A) provides for alterations to a licence under section 16(1B) (permanent closure of a section of a zoo) to have effect once the appeal period has expired; or if an appeal is made, if it is unsuccessful or abandoned, on the day after the appeal is determined or abandoned, or any other such day as the court directs.
132. Section 18(8) and 18(9) provide for the following types of direction to take effect only after the appeal period has expired or the appeal has been determined (if unsuccessful) or abandoned: a direction issued under section 16A(2)(d) requiring the zoo or a part of it to be closed to the public for a period not exceeding two years; a direction issued under section 13(8)(c), 16A(2) or 16E(6) requiring an operator to undertake works he would not normally do; or a direction issued under section 13(8)(c) or 16E(6) requiring animals to be disposed of.
133. Section 18(10) provides that a zoo closure direction issued under section 16B has effect:
 - (a) when the appeal period expires; or where an appeal is made;
 - (b) the day after the court's decision if it upholds or varies the authorities decision, or any other day the court directs; or
 - (c) the day after the appeal is abandoned or any other day that the court directs.

Offences and penalties

134. Section 19 creates the following criminal offences:
 - (a) operating a zoo without a licence in contravention of the Act;
 - (b) failing without reasonable excuse to comply with any conditions of the licence;
 - (c) intentionally obstructing an inspector in the course of an inspection;
 - (d) intentionally obstructing someone who is authorised in accordance with section 16G to enter the premises of a permanently closed zoo or a dwelling within the zoo grounds;
 - (e) failing without reasonable excuse to comply with a direction issued under section 16A(2)(d) to close a zoo or part of it to the public for a period not exceeding two years;

- (f) failing without reasonable excuse to comply with a zoo closure direction;
- (g) failing without reasonable excuse to supply information requested by the local authority about the care or disposal of zoo animals in the event of zoo closure;
- (h) failing without reasonable excuse and without the agreement of the authority, to dispose of any animal kept at a permanently closed zoo before the plan in section 16E(2) has been approved by the authority, or other than in accordance with the agreed plan;
- (i) failing without reasonable excuse to comply with a direction issued under section 16E(6) (direction about the welfare or disposal of animals kept in a permanently closed zoo);
- (j) failing without reasonable excuse to display the zoo licence or a copy at each entrance to the zoo.

135. Under section 19(4), persons found guilty of any offence except obstructing an inspector, failing to supply information about the care or disposal of zoo animals in the event of zoo closure, or failing to display the licence or a copy of it at each zoo entrance are liable, on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding level 4 on the standard scale of fines for summary offences, as set out in section 37 of the Criminal Justice Act 1982. For obstructing an inspector, failing to supply the information about the care and disposal of the animals or failing to display the zoo licence the maximum fine is a level 3 fine.

Directions

136. Section 19A requires the local authority to take reasonable steps to ensure the operator of the zoo, or if the operator cannot be found, the person appearing responsible for the zoo, is notified of a direction in writing.

Temporary removal of animals from zoo premises

137. Under section 22(2) an animal temporarily removed from the zoo (eg at a television studio or other location outside the zoo premises), shall be treated as kept in the zoo when it is in the personal possession of the zoo operator or competent persons acting on his/her behalf. This is to ensure that a separate licence under the Dangerous Wild Animals Act 1976 will not be needed on such temporary excursions. Bearing in mind all the safety and welfare aspects involved, however, it is recommended that the local authority discuss the general arrangements for such excursions with the operator.

Existing licences

138. Local authorities are required in accordance with regulation 27 to ensure that, for all zoos other than ones which close before 1 May 2003, the licence has before that date conditions attached to it to secure implementation of the conservation measures set out in section 1A of the Act. Consistent with regulation 27(3), the local authority must give the licence holder the opportunity to make representations before attaching these conditions. They do not take effect until the licence holder has received them in writing. As with any other alteration of a licence, the licence holder has a right of appeal under section 18 against the authority's decision.

139. The local authority are reminded to have regard to the Secretary of State's Standards of Modern Zoo Practice when deciding what conditions to attach. Also, that this change to the licence does not amount to a significant change and do it does not warrant a pre-inspection in accordance with section 9A of the Act.

Transitional Arrangements for zoos without licences

140. Regulation 28 makes special provision for any zoos that previously opened for exactly seven days in a twelve-month period. Prior to the 2002 Regulations coming into force, they could operate legally without a licence. Regulation 28 permits these zoos to continue to operate without a licence for a period of six months from when these Regulations came into effect (8 January 2003) and if within that period they apply for a licence, until the application is finally disposed of or withdrawn.
141. Regulation 28 makes clear that section 16C (zoo closure direction for zoos without licences), which deals with unlicensed zoos, does not apply to the zoos that open for exactly seven days for as long as they can rely on the provision in regulation 28(2). Where a licence is granted to these zoos, it shall run for a period of four years.

 - (b) either –
 - (i) any part of the premises to which admission for any of those purposes is sought is used as a private dwelling, or

“Existing licences

- (1) This regulation applies to all zoos in England in respect of which a licence is in force under the Act on 8th January 2003, except for zoos which close before 1st May 2003.

- (2) The local authority shall before 1st May 2003 secure that each licence granted by them under the Act contains such conditions as the authority think necessary or desirable to secure that the conservation measures referred to in section 1A of the Act are implemented at the zoo and may alter the licence for that purpose.
- (3) Section 16(2), (3) and (4) to (6) of the Act applies to the alteration of a licence under paragraph (2) as if the references in section 16(2) and (6) to “subsection (1)” were references to that paragraph.

 - (b) if within that period application is made for a licence, until that application is finally disposed of or withdrawn.
- (3) Section 16C of the Act does not apply to a zoo to which this regulation applies for so long as a person may by virtue of paragraph (2) continue to operate the zoo without a licence.
- (4) If the licence is granted, it shall be granted for a period of four years beginning with the date on which the licence is granted.”

Annex B

Please Note: In some cases the suggested model condition may need to be adapted for the circumstances of the zoo in question. The breeding of wild animals in captivity, or the re-population and/or re-introduction activities should be applied only where it is appropriate to the zoo. Where it is appropriate, more tailored or specific text might be more suitable.

Local authorities may, of course, vary and adapt the text of any part of the model condition, or design their own condition, but the condition must in all cases meet the requirements of new section 1A of the Act.

Authorities are reminded that under section 16(2) of the Act they are required to give licence holders an opportunity to make representations before altering a zoo licence.

Example condition

[Name of zoo] must:

- promote public education and awareness about biodiversity conservation. In particular, provide information about the species of wild animals kept in the zoo and their natural habitats.
- accommodate and keep the animals in a manner consistent with the standards set out in the Secretary of State's Standards of Modern Zoo Practice.
- prevent escapes and put in place measures to be taken in the event of any escape or unauthorised release of animals.
- introduce practical measures designed to prevent the intrusion of pests and vermin into the premises of the zoo.
- keep up-to-date records of the animals, including numbers of different animals, acquisitions, births, death, disposals and escapes, causes of deaths and the health of the animals.
- Participate in at least one of the following:
 - Research which benefits the conservation of wild animals
 - Training in relevant conservation skills
 - Exchanging information about the conservation of wild animals
 - Breeding of wild animals in captivity
 - Repopulating an area with wild animals, or re-introducing wild animals

[zoo] must keep information to show how it has complied with this condition and supply it to the local authority upon request.

Annex C

Discretionary conditions commonly attached to licences

Discretionary conditions must not conflict with the mandatory conditions giving effect to the conservation measures in section 1A of the Act. But these conditions can complement them if the local authority believe they are necessary to ensure the proper conduct of the zoo.

Insurance

1. Within one month of the date of the licence and one month of the date of renewal of the policy, where applicable, a copy of the zoo's current public liability insurance policy, and of subsequent renewals thereof, to be sent to the licensing authority.

Hazardous Animals

2. The licensing authority to be notified in writing, at least one month in advance, of the proposed addition of any animal listed in category 1 of the Hazardous Animal Categorisation (see Appendix 12 of the Secretary of State's Standards of Modern Zoo Practice), which is from a taxonomic family of which Category 1 species have not previously been kept in the zoo.

Temporary Removal of Animals from the Zoo

3. The licensee/s to notify the licensing authority before the temporary removal from the zoo (other than for veterinary attention or inter-zoo movements) of any animal listed in category 1 of the Hazardous Animal Categorisation of Secretary of State's Standards of Modern Zoo Practice. Such notification to be given as early as possible and, in any case, no later than 12 hours before the removal, unless the zoo operator and licensing authority mutually agree a shorter period. When giving notification, details of the destination and method of transportation of the animal and of the arrangements for its well-being, as well as for the safety of the public whilst it is away from the zoo, to be provided.

Escapes

4. In the event of any non-domestic animal escaping from the confines of the zoo, notification shall be made to the licensing authority as soon as possible, and, in any case, not later than 24 hours following the escape.

Note 1. These conditions are attached to the licence without prejudice to the application, where relevant, of the Secretary of State's Standards of Modern Zoo Practice specified in accordance powers conferred under section 9 of the Zoo Licensing Act 1981 (as amended)

Note 2. The grant of this licence does not imply that the requirements of any other legislation have been met.

Annex D

Zoo Licensing Act 1981 (as amended) Dispensations/Exemptions

Although each case is considered on its merits, and other situations may qualify, it may help to know that directions will normally be made when zoos fall into one of the following categories.

Section 14(1)(a) Direction on application from the Local Authority

- (i) traditional deer parks
- (ii) collections of llamas and alpacas not exceeding 5
- (iii) collections, excluding those of wild mammals, of small, non-hazardous and non-conservation sensitive wild species not normally exceeding 120 specimens.

Section 14(1)(b) Direction on application from the Local Authority

- (i) collections of llamas and alpacas not exceeding 10
- (ii) collections of non-hazardous and non-conservation sensitive wild species, excluding wild mammals, not normally exceeding 200 specimens.

Section 14(2) Direction on application from the Zoo Operator

Small collections not included in 14(1)(a) and 14(1)(b) where the hazardous and/or conservation-sensitive species component of the collection not normally exceeds 50 specimens

ANY CHANGES TO ANIMAL COLLECTIONS MAY AFFECT THE DISPENSATION STATUS.

Notes

1. "Hazardous" means any species listed in categories 1 and/or 2 of Appendix 12 of the Secretary of State's Standards of Modern Zoo Practice.
2. "Conservation sensitive" means any species listed in Annex A of Commission Regulation (EC) No. 2307/97 and listed in the Red List of IUCN (all categories other than "least concerned").
3. Any establishment that keeps wild animals for display to the public, taking account of the guidance in paragraph 4 of this Circular, is likely to be considered a zoo and will need to be licensed accordingly. Such establishments will be considered for exemptions or dispensations in accordance with the above guidance.
4. In a farm park, if wild animals are integrated into the domestic collection, and not separated in a meaningful way, then the domestics will have to be included in the inspection. Such an increase in numbers of animals and facilities may well take the collection as a whole into a higher category, or out of dispensation and into full inspection.
5. A "traditional deer park" is a stand-alone collection, on view to the public, holding Red and/or Fallow and/or Roe deer and/or Sika deer in an enclosed area of no less than 50 hectares. If the collection changes by adding other species of deer, or other wild animals, or by making the public enclosures smaller (for example to ease public viewing) then the collection would not be suitable for a 14(1)(a) dispensation.
6. If an establishment has a 14(1)(a) or (b) dispensation, introducing hazardous or conservation sensitive wild species for the purpose of display or demonstration may call into question the appropriateness of the dispensation or exemption. Local authorities are advised to check with Defra if they are concerned about a particular introduction.
7. An establishment not displaying wild animals could take and display wild animals for up to a maximum of six days in any twelve-month period. Any more days would mean the collection was caught by the provisions of the Zoo Licensing Act 1981 (as amended).

Annex E

Animals considered normally domesticated or not normally domesticated for the purposes of the Zoo licensing Act 1981

The Secretary of State is not in a position to give an authoritative statement on which animals fall into the “normally non-domestic” and “normally domestic” categories as interpretation of legislation is a matter for the Courts. However, an informal view on the more common cases that have caused uncertainty is set out below.

To explain the thinking, the two categories have been sub-divided into the following five sub-categories. Species not in categories 1 to 4 will almost certainly be in 5. Hybrid species should be treated as not normally domesticated if one of the parents is from sub-categories 3 to 5. Where there is doubt about a species, local authorities, inspectors or operators may check with Defra who may seek views through the Zoos Forum:

Species normally domesticated in Great Britain and therefore not “wild animals” for the purposes of the ZLA.		Species not normally domesticated in Great Britain and therefore to be considered “wild animals” for the purposes of the ZLA.
1. True domestic breeds of species that have been kept in this country for so long, and in such large numbers, that their status as “normally domesticated in Great Britain” is clearly justified (exotic domestic breeds of the same species as those listed here are included, eg. Vietnamese pot-bellied pigs). Examples: horses/ponies, donkeys, cattle, sheep, goats, pigs, dogs, cats, ferrets, rabbits, pigeons/doves, chickens, turkeys, ducks, geese.	2. True domestic breeds, and selectively bred wild species, introduced to this country relatively recently, but now so commonly kept outside zoological collections as to justify regarding them as “normally domesticated in Great Britain”. Examples: guinea pigs, hamsters, gerbils, rats, mice, chinchillas, budgerigars, canaries, guinea fowl, peafowl, goldfish, koi carp, golden orfe.	3. True domestic breeds of species introduced to this country relatively recently, and kept in relatively low numbers, and that therefore should be regarded as “not normally domesticated in Great Britain” (exotic domestic breeds of species in list 1. are included in that list). Examples: llamas, alpacas, camels, water buffalo, Ankole cattle, yak, reindeer.	4. Wild species, commercially farmed or widely bred by hobbyists (including some species which have been selectively bred and therefore may be considered domestic), but where this is so recent as to render the species “not normally domesticated in Great Britain” Examples: deer, ostriches, wild boar, American bison, aquarium and pond fish (excluding those in 2.), cage and aviary birds (excluding those in 2.), waterfowl (excluding those in 1.), giant African land snails.	5. True wild species, where domesticity is not seriously suggested. Examples: All species not listed in 1. to 4.

Annex F

Treatment or disposal of animals in the event of a zoo's closure, including where a zoo is operating in contravention of the act without a licence

In the event of a zoo or a section of a zoo being closed down permanently, whether that closure is voluntary or otherwise, the zoo operator must make arrangements for the future care of any animals to be retained and the arrangements for the disposal of animals not to be retained. The operator should be satisfied that these arrangements are compatible with the biological needs and conservation requirements of each animal. Any new premises will therefore need to provide adequate accommodation and the new owners should have the expertise and resources to meet the animals' physical, psychological and social needs.

The local authority, if content, will approve these arrangements and supervise their implementation, normally through the submission of information from the operator on how the arrangements are progressing. The local authority would normally become more involved only if the zoo operator has vanished; or they believe the approved arrangements are not being followed properly; or they need to step in as a matter of urgency; or they own the zoo.

If the local authority have to arrange for the animals at the closed zoo to be cared for and perhaps disposed of, they will want to be satisfied that any new premises provide adequate accommodation and the collection has the expertise and resources to meet the animals' physical, psychological and social needs. The Federation of Zoological Gardens of Great Britain and Ireland, the British Association of Leisure Parks, Piers and Attractions (BALPPA), the National Farm Attractions Network, the RSPCA and the European Association of Zoos and Aquaria are useful contacts who might be able to suggest possible homes for zoo animals. Where the animals are conservation sensitive, the relevant groups that oversee the management of breeding such animals (the Taxon Advisory Groups) should be contacted via the Federation of Zoological Gardens. If the animals have been loaned to the zoo, the local authority should contact the owners who should be asked to find appropriate homes for them. Where the local authority sell the animals, guidance on this and the treatment of the sale proceeds is covered in paragraphs 119-124 of the Circular.

Disposal would normally mean moving the animals to other premises, but occasionally euthanasia may prove to be in the best welfare interests of the animal. To help reach a decision on pursuing this avenue, further guidance is given in the matrix at Annex G

If a zoo has failed commercially, the receivers will need to be clear that any animal disposal that they may be involved with will have to be conducted in accordance with Zoo Licensing Act 1981, as amended. This means, for example, that conservation-sensitive species should not necessarily be sold to the highest bidder (if the animals are to be sold) but have to be re-homed in a manner that is consistent with the conservation needs of the species.

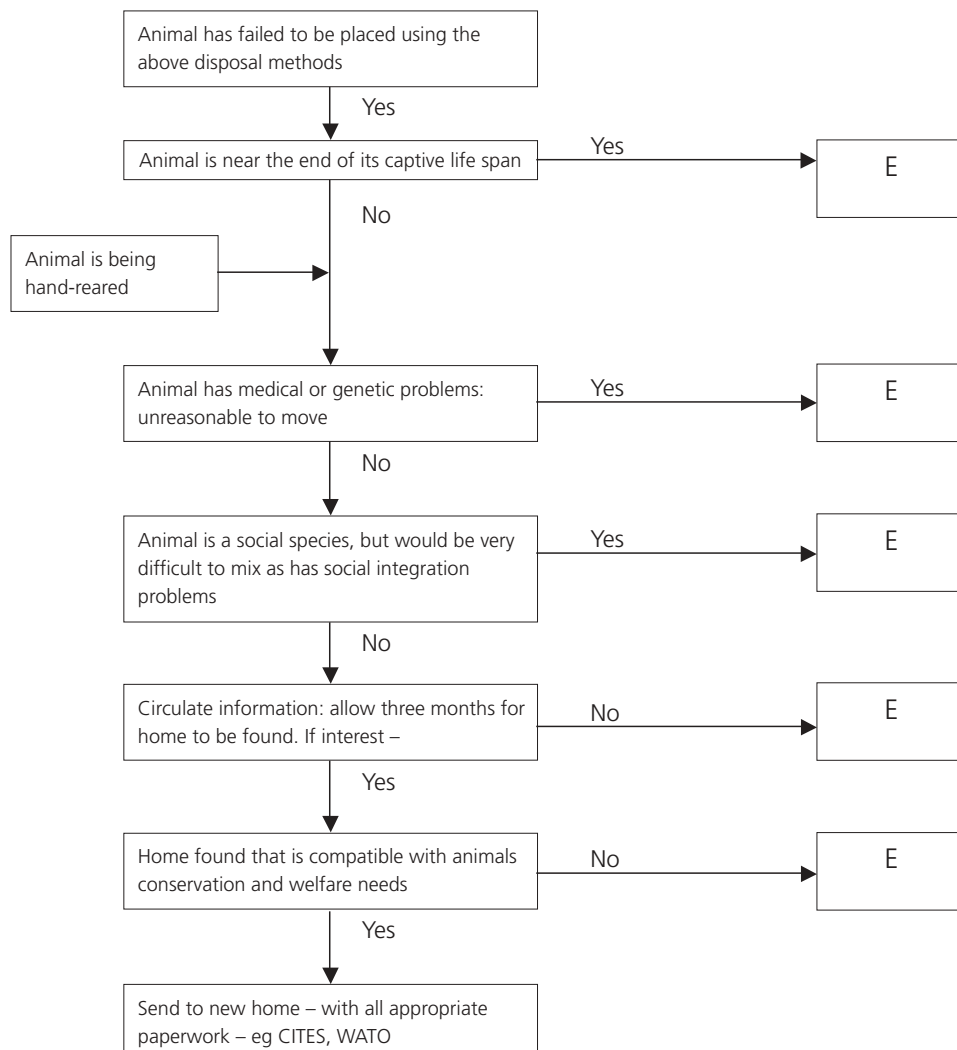

A list of contact organisations that may be able to provide useful advice on certain queries is as Annex "H".

Annex G

Decision Tree to help Local Authorities decide if an animal for which they are responsible should be put down

- If after contacting organisations such as the Federation of Zoological Gardens of Great Britain, the British Association of Leisure Parks, Piers and Attractions, the National Farm Attraction Network; the RSPCA; and European Association of Zoos and Aquaria or other international bodies no home can be found for the animal that is compatible with its conservation and welfare needs;
- The Taxon Advisory Groups (contacted through the Federation of Zoos) decide the animal cannot be used in a managed programme;
- The owner of the animal (where it was loaned to the zoo) cannot or will not find a home for it or consents to the disposal.

The animal should enter the flow chart to decide whether or not euthanasia (E) is an appropriate option
